Habeas Corpus Proceedings for Haywood.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 1.—Taking rebuttal testimony for both the State and the defense consumed nearly all to-day's session in the hearing of the habeas corpus proceedings for Ernest Haywood, slayer of Ludlow Skinner. Argument is being made contrary to previous agreement, and it will be noon to-morrow before the judges will take the case. This morning the defense introduced W. P. Hose, architect, who testified to measurements he had taken that prove W. E. Gwaltney could not have seen Haywood's hand or pistol where he swwere he saw them from his drug store window, thus contradicting an important State's witness. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Defense also introduced Drs. W. I. Rogers, A. W. Goodwin as medical experts to prove that a person receiving the wound Skinner received could have gone the distance he did after being wounded by the first shot.

COULD LIVE A MINUTE.

Concensus of opinion was that Skinner could have lived at least a minute and gone sixty or one hundred feet. Dr. Hubert Royster told of one case under his observation when a man shot twice through the heart and great lower artery ran one hundred yards afterwards.

Deputy Sheriff Sparks, who arrested Haywood, contradicted Gwaliney's testimouth after the second shot.

The prosecution introduced three witnesses to impeach the character of Charles Hocutt, one of the witnesses for the defense, who corroborated the testimony of Simms and Bernard Schmitz, of Baltimore, that Skinner struck Haywood before the shooting.

A number of photographs of the scene of the shooting were introduced by the defense.

The justices fixed a limit of two hours on each side.

James H. Pou opened for the defense; Robert Strong followed for the prosecution; W. H. Day for the defense, and Do. 1d Gilliam for the prosecution.

Argument is principally as to the ball-ableness of a case after a grand Jury has found a true bill for murder, and as to the amount of ball if allowed.

THE AUDUBON SOCIETY

A Comprehensive Plan of Protecting Birds in North Carolina.

Birds in North Carolina.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

GREENSBORO, N. C., June 1.—The Audubon Society, for bird and game protection, is planning a vigorous campaign for this summer. According to a recent act of the Legislature the Audubon Society is charged with the responsibility of recommending to the Governor for appointment, suitable persons in different parts of the State to serve as bird and game wardens.

The society pays these wardens for their services. The only sources of income are the $10 gun license which all non-resident hunters must pay and the annual membership fees of the seciety. The executive committee has decided to ask for the appointment of one or more wardens for every county in the State wherein the funds arising from either of the above sources will warrant the securing of competent edicers. The tx-ecutive committee has further cancluded to establish branch societies at such to establish branch societies at such places as may be desired by the bird lovers and sportsmen of the community, in order to further facilitate the objects in order to further facilitate the objects of the organization.

A call has been made to all persons in the State who are interested in the objects of the society to become sustaining members and pay an annual fee of 5. Something of how the movement is regarded in Guilford may be gathered from the statement, that in sustaining members and a number of life members who pay an initiation fee of 80 cach. We learn from Mr. Gilbert Pearson, the secretary of the society, that he will spend a number of weeks this summer visiting different places in the State and speaking to the people on the subject of

He states that he has received the most hearty response and encouragement from the sportsmen of Greensboro, Raleigh, Winston, Lexington, burham and Asheville, the only points which he has thus far visited. He goes to Asheboro to speak Monday night.

Mr. Pearson states that two wardens have been commissioned. One of these,

This officer guards the islands and banks from Roanoke Island to Ocracoke, a distance of about eighty miles. He reports that in all this region probably not over 300 sea birds will breed this summer, whereas a few years ago at least 100,000 could be found. Salisbury Merchants Form an Association—Runaway Accident. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

SALISBURY, N. C., June 1.-Mr. C. A. Rice, of this place, who has been very sick with fever for the past week, had an unpleasant experience with a burgian the other day. The sick man was alone in his room at the time the burglar entered, who was a stout negro, but seeing him rilling his pockets he was aroused to action, and assailed the thief, administering a number of blows with a beer bottle, when he became too weak to combat with the leaver and fainted. The negro that he will soon recover.

As the result of a runaway, Mr. H.
Holshouser had one of his arms broten, and he was otherwise bruised and mangled.

At a meeting of the Sallsbury Merchants' Association held Friday night, Mr. W. L. Kluttz was elected president, and Mr. P. N. Peacock, secretary. Every merchant present joined the association, and four delegates were elected to the State convention, which will meet Raleigh June 8th and 9th.

operator, who is in custedy in New York awaiting extradition on charges made in England.

The opinion in the case was delivered by Chief Justice Fuller, and refused Wright's release. The case came to the Supreme Court on an appeal from the decision of the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York, dismissing a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that the crime alleged against Wright is an extraditable offense under the terms of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain. The opinion affirms that decision.

Wright is in the custody of the marshal at New York on a charge of having committed fraud in England while acting as a director of an English corporation. An attempt was made to secure his discharge by the commissioner on the ground that the offense charged was not one "made criminal by both countries," as required by the treaty. The application was denied, as was also an application to admit to ball. It was then that the writ of habeas corpus was sued out in the Circuit. That court sustained the action of the commissioner.

The court dismissed for want of jurisdiction the case of O'Neal vs. the United

In the case of the Board of County Commissioners of Stanley, N. An interesting feature was that a son of Dr. Holmes was one of the justices who pased upon the case involving the copyright of his father's books.

At the Cheatres.

The closing week at the Bijou should be a record-breaker if the presentation of a fascinating play by a very clever company counts for anything in attractiveness. The company that Mr. Fawceit has sent here for this particular event is only of his best. It is well balanced, and its members collectively are about as attractive a coterie as could well be imagined. Of course, Lady Babbio is the center of interest in a production of "The Little Minister," which serves to introduce this company, and Miss Julia Marie Taylor fills every requirement. She is an exceediny pretty girl-wivacious, fascinating and wholly charming in all those characteristics that go to make up that composite, delightfucreation of J. M. Barrie. There have been many actresses seen in this part in Richmond, but hardly any more winning or capitivating than Miss Taylor, who makes her first appearance in a position of such prominence.

advance of the age, in which he lived on the mimic stage. It is one thing to don a costume, and anolier to carry yourself back to the age it represents. The most conspicuous success of the evening belonged to Mr. Mace Greenleaf, who played Captain Larolle. "Under the Red Robe" has been twice presented have before this performance of the Giffen Company, but in neither of those productions was the role Estler enacted than it was last night by Mr. Greenleaf. His characterization wis easily the best in the production. Mr. Joseph Woodburn was acceptable as Richelleu, and made up well for the part. Mr. Duane, whose work is mostly given to staging the productions, rather than taking part in them, had an opportunity in the role of Clon, and gave a vivid portrayal of a character which is none the less difficult because no word is spoken.

Messrs. Charlos Lane, R. B. Kegerrels and R. G. Thomas were all satisfactory in parts that made no great demand upon them. Miss Blanche Hal, as Renee de Cocheforet, repeated the favorable impression she made upon her first appearance with the company. Miss Rose Tapley was not equal to the part of Madane de Cocheforet. Whenever she is called upon to show distress, she distresses the audience. Thus far, the parts she has played here have been quite beyond her resch.
